

About CaptureRx

Founded in 2000, San Antonio-based CaptureRx is a healthcare technology company and leading 340B solution provider that puts people first, touching millions of patient lives through customer obsession and innovative products and services that support relationships among payers, providers, pharmacies and patients.

More than 17 years ago, the company started out by providing pharmacy benefits management and operational services, primarily for mental health and intellectual and developmental disability clinics.

After attending the first 340B Health event in the late 1990s, company co-founders Chris Hotchkiss and J. Edward Gilmartin quickly realized there was an opportunity to support health centers and clinics by helping them navigate the complex requirements of 340B, allowing providers to maintain their focus on serving patients. The 340B business grew rapidly, and CaptureRx refocused all resources on becoming the leading 340B administrator for hospitals, health centers, clinics and pharmacies.

About the 340B program

The 340B program is a federal drug discount program that requires pharmaceutical companies to provide drug discounts to safety net hospitals and other covered entities that provide care to underserved populations. Hospitals use the savings from the 340B program to help stretch their budgets and provide more care. Solutions from CaptureRx help qualifying hospitals and health centers realize drug cost savings through the 340B program — while helping ensure they meet the program's compliance requirements.
